

Time

*The sun knows,
Just when to rise*

*The wave
Exactly when to break*

*Yet we,
Are the only ones with schedules and calendars,
A time to watch a movie
A time for lunch*

We ourselves hung the clock on the kitchen wall

*However still,
While the cat does not check its watch
Nor the stag fret over missing appointments,
Man alone measures time
Man alone strikes the hour*

Which is why man alone suffers the most tormenting fear no other creature endures.

A fear of time running out.
